The Work Dilemma, by Caleb Applegate- God's original design included work, but it was never supposed to become our identity. In this series we look at the ways culture has shifted from God's purpose for work and how we can reprioritize.

Workplace Ministry- This series examines the impact and effect that Christians can and should have in the workplace, how the Bible supports this notion, and how the church can support and encourage Christian workers through inspiring leaders, organizations, and movements to understand the importance of workplace ministry to global evangelization.

Discover Joy in Work, by Shundrawn Thomas- We devote most of our waking hours to work. Yet research reveals today's workers are working longer, are more stressed, and are increasingly disengaged from their work. We can often blame our dissatisfaction on inadequate work environments, leading us to think we will be happy once we find the right workplace.

But our happiness in work has much more to do with our inward environments than the four walls of our offices. Join author, entrepreneur, and executive Shundrawn Thomas in this three-part series as he helps us discover the joy in work.
