Some suggested Right Now Videos to view in response to this week's message:

Full Commitment to God, by Rachel Joy- We struggle with duplicity, torn in two directions: full commitment to God, or full commitment to the world? In this session Rachel Joy teaches through the Book of James #1. Full commitment to God means knowing Him in deep relationship.

Trust, by Henry Cloud- Trust, in its many forms, is a crucial component of effective leadership. We put this to the test on the Autobahn, the German highway without speed limits. We will explore what elements need to be in place in order for you to trust those you work with and have them feel confident placing their trust in you. Join Dr. Henry Cloud as he travels to the Autobahn in Germany and focuses on this critical aspect of leadership, helping you to achieve higher levels of success, both individually and for others.

Trust God with Your Kids, by Michael DiMarco- As a Christian parent, perhaps one of the greatest fears you face is whether or not your child will embrace a faith in Christ of their own. In this post, author and pastor Michael DiMarco speaks from Scripture, pointing to the encouragement parents can find when they entrust their children to God.

In God We Trust?, by Bryan Chapell- In the United States, when you cast your vote an election, you are exercising rights given to you by the government. God gives Christians specific instructions about government and citizenship that go beyond merely voting. In these three sessions, pastors Bryan Chapell and Sandy Willson examine the United States' past, the present responsibilities of Christians to their government, and the future hope Christians have in heaven.

Do You Trust God Enough to Rest?, by Bill Peel- When you are doing what you are gifted to do, you want to work, you enjoy your work and you work hard. But how much is too much? Bill Peel, Executive Director of The Center for Faith & Work, talks about the importance of balancing the time we spend at work and at rest as well as where we will find our significance.
